Participant Digital Badge

The Volunteering Action Plan was developed to create a Scotland where everyone can volunteer, more often, and throughout their lives. The Plan directly supports the National Performance Framework.

The development of the Plan involved an intense co-produced effort, with a number of working groups focused on key aspects of volunteering. This successful engagement model benefited from the knowledge, expertise and direct support of this badge holder, which was invaluable to the success of this national development.

This digital badge been awarded in recognition of participation within the development of our Volunteering Action Plan, as part of the wider work towards Volunteering for All.

The holder of this digital badge has received it in recognition of their involvement and participation in the development of Volunteering for All. The Volunteering Action Plan invited individuals, groups and organisations to work together through a set of focused activities to learn more about volunteering, to reflect on current thinking about volunteering and its place within Scotland and to help reshape the future for volunteering so that all volunteers have a positive experience.

As a participant they supported the creation of the Volunteering Action Plan by:

- freely sharing their knowledge, skills and expertise
- entering discussions with others to identify the key issues and what really matters to the development of the plan and volunteering
- suggesting and contributing to the creation of the next steps to further enhance the volunteering conversation
- embracing an informing learning culture
- supporting the wider understanding of the impact of volunteering.

This badge holder has engaged in a process of co-production and learning within a spirit of reciprocity to further strengthen and develop volunteering within Scotland.

We would like to recognise and thank this person for their commitment to volunteering and building a positive volunteer experience.
